

Dear Highlanders of the Rebels clan!

Most of joe guys zullen zich misschien afvragen what we all must take with on the familyweekend.

Well, that's a god damned bloody hell of a coincidence, because here below befinnds itself the list of what you mandatorily must take with:

- One "handdoek" per adult (to dry off the washed dishes, spoons, knives, forks, glasses, etc)
- A Sleeping bag per person (for the childrens as well)
- An asshole knife
- Solid buggy's for the little childrens
- Companygames for in the local Scottish pub at night
- Those who have iron balls (in French they call it "petanque") can bring them with as well
- some things where the childrens can occupy themselves with, especially when it should rain (what happens a lot in Scotland as you know); for example: draw material (paper and so one), company games, a ball to play football, rugby, badminton materials, ...
- Good shoes for in the woods
- Sportive shoes as well
- A guitar (to avoid the rats from approaching)

For more visually oriented people we have shown some examples on the next slide.
